Good afternoon!

It's been a long 7 years since our last Diocesan Convention in Atlanta, GA in 2012, and we are so excited that in less than 2 months, we will be getting together as one Diocese in Houston, TX to celebrate our heritage as St Thomas Christians!

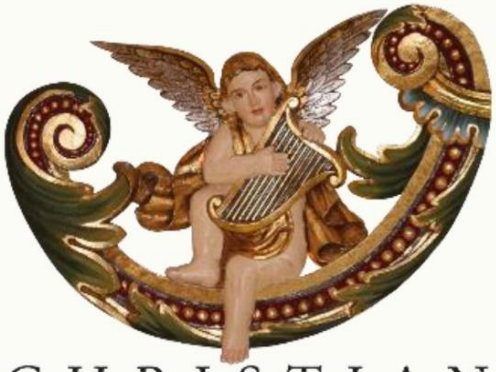

Some of you may be thinking: "Man, finally!" or "Oh, this again..", but most definitely you're thinking "About time we're getting an email about this!". So I'm here to say to you.... I'm sorry. lol

For this upcoming convention, the Convention committee has put an emphasis on 'One Convention, One Family". As we look back to the past 10 years, our Diocese have actively tried to engage and respond to the issues and concerns of the 2nd generation and current youth and young adults of our Diocesan community, however we continue to see consistent disengagement of this population. One major set back mostly experienced diocese-wide is the disregard and disinterest for English Holy Qurbana in our parishes/ missions. We understand the importance of authentic participation in our liturgy from ALL its members, so in response, we will be celebrating Holy Qurbana on Friday AND Saturday (2 major days of Convention) fully in ENGLISH for all Convention attendees.

Not only we will be having an English Qurbana these two days, but we ALSO will be incorporating up to 4 Syriac songs in our liturgical celebrations. These include: Sagdinan Mar (Entrance - Saturday);
